Interview and recording of answers

Interview

You are going to interview a member of your family. Draw up 5 questions which you would like to ask around the issue of the changes that happened as a result of your birth. Record your family member's answers. Each answer must be 2-3 sentences long. If you set a yes/no answer, then there must be a follow-up in the same question.

Bring your questions and answers to class. You will work with a pair and role-play the two interviews, first as the interviewer and then as your friend's interviewee.

You will be assessed against the following rubric:

Suggested Solutions

You are going to assess the interview itself, rather than the written work.

Learners should be given the following time to complete the task:

- class time: to draw up the questions, with your help
- homework time: to interview the family member
- class time: to prepare the interviews with the partner
- class time: to role-play the interviews

Use the rubric to assess the learners.

Here are suggested questions and answers:

Questions

Interview with my brother:

1. How did you feel when I was born?
I didn't really understand what was happening. I spent a lot of time with Granny and Grandad.
2. Why did you feel like this?
I was only 21 months old at the time, too young to know what having a brother really meant.
3. Were there any changes in your life on the day I came home? Please explain.
I have been told that I took one look at you when you were brought to the car and asked, "What's that?" I suppose I felt something but I really can't remember.
4. Were there changes in your life after the first 6 weeks? Please explain.
Oh yes. Again, I have been told that after 6 weeks, I suddenly became jealous of you. I seem to have been quite happy until then. Then I realised that you were staying permanently, and I was jealous. So I tried to hit you over the head with a long wooden block.
5. Were there any other changes after the first three months?
By then, I had accepted you. You used to lie in a white baby seat, and I would drag you around the flat so that you could be in whatever room I was in and watch me play. I liked having your company. Things have changed!
